- Click the “Opt-out” tab and then “New Search”. If the website is displaying your current home address, click the “Remove” box on the right side of the screen. If you are unsure, click the blue highlight “Link” to navigate to that websites.

You may have to enter your name and navigate through that websites search results. Click “Save” after reviewing the results and finished clicking “Remove”. You can navigate to other profiles and click, “Go” to start searching for your family’s information.

The screenshot shows the 'Peace Officer Internet Protection' interface. On the left is a navigation menu with 'New search' highlighted. The main area is divided into two sections: 'LPrivacy search results' and 'Bing search results'. Both sections contain tables with columns for S.No, Website, Personal Detail, Related To, Alias, Match %, Link, and Remove. Red arrows point to the 'Link' and 'Remove' buttons in both sections, with text annotations explaining the steps: 'Click the link and navigate to the website in order to verify the website is displaying your information.', 'Click save when your are done.', and 'Click the link and navigate to the website in order to verify the website is displaying your information. You may have to enter your information in their website.' A 'Go' button is also visible in the privacy search section.

- Once you complete the process above, we will verify your account and begin the removal process. It may take 1-7 days to complete the opt-out process.

As long as your account is current, we will perform weekly automated searches of your information and email you the results. Navigate through the results and click the “Remove” button if you see your current name, home address and telephone listed in the results.
